Food For Repentance.

A well-known Federal official was strolling down Philadelphia Avenue one afternoon when he encountered a very small boy crying bitterly.

"What's the matter with that child?" demanded the official, somewhat peremptorily of the woman who had him in charge. "Is he ill?"

"He ain't exactly ill," responded the unmoved woman. "but, between you and me, sir, no stomach ain't goin' to stand nine doughnuts!"

REPTON.

We have been very busy for the past few weeks and therefore have not had time to write the items of our vicinity, however, as the heavy rains of recent date have got the ground in such a condition as to prevent us from doing anything in the fields, so we have a little leisure time and will endeavor to give the news of this section this week.

The farmers are delayed in turning the soil owing to the excessive rains of late, but the season has helped the farmers to get their remnant of tobacco to market.

A. L. Lucas delivered a load of fine tobacco Thursday to the Farmers' Union warehouse, and received a fancy price for it. T. F. Henry also delivered a load of tobacco Thursday. B. F. Slaughter finished delivering his tobacco Thursday.

Uncle Hugh McKee gave a bush cutting and quilting Tuesday.

Tony Miller, recently of Todd Co., will work for B. F. Slaughter this year.

Look out for an old time chivari in our neighborhood next week. Guess who it will be. Lent closed Easter Sunday.

Will Tom Henry gave a bush whacking last week—many a bush was slain by the good neighbors.

Wheat and oats are looking fine in this section.

Tobacco plants are very scarce in this community owing to the hard frosts in the latter part of March.

Mrs. B. F. Slaughter has received her brooder, after having turned off two hatches of chicks from her incubator.

Tobacco Tidings.

BY R. F. WINKLER.

Beginning with next issue of this paper we will publish a series of articles on the tobacco situation as it affects the district in general, and this county in particular.

This is being done by authority of the Stemming District Tobacco Association, and in these articles we hope to be able to present to you in a plain, straightforward way the history, the plan, and the purpose of this organization, and its claim for the support of the tobacco growers of Crittenden county.

In this discussion we expect to make no statement that we cannot prove by facts and figures, and while we aim to state our own position and opinions candidly and fearlessly, we shall at all times respect the opinions of others whether they be for the Association, Farmers' Union or wish to sell their tobacco independently of either organization.

We said at the beginning of the agitation of this question that the growers of this county ought to all join it or all stay out we are still of the same opinion. We cannot remain half Association and half independent and succeed. It causes strife and contentions that is neither to our credit nor of any profit to us. It is to try to change these conditions that we ask your patient consideration of our side of the case.

Since this Association has been here, it has paid out to the farmers of this county more than a quarter of a million dollars for tobacco, has given employment to many hands in its factories. It has paid the highest average price, $8.00 for the 1907 crop, that has been paid to the farmers of this county since the war. It not only has the confidence of the growers at home but also that of our customers, the tobacco buyers abroad. It certainly merits all that we ask—a patient hearing without prejudice. If after we talk this matter over it occurs that you have the best plan we want to join you. It on the other hand we can show you that carrying a bush we shall expect you, as honest men, to co-operate with us.

JESSE F. BRUCE BUYS HARNESS BUSINESS.

L. Berland's harness and saddlery shop, the oldest mercantile business in this city but one under the same ownership and management, has been bought by J. F. Bruce, who recently came here from Alva, Okla. The deal was a straight sale proposition and amounted to the neighborhood of $4,000.

Mr. Berland started in business here 13 years ago last fall and has always enjoyed a fine trade. His dealings extended all over the county. Stockmen and ranchers came from as far as 60 miles to trade with Mr. Berland because of his known uprightness and probity and because they liked him. He has been very successful and retires with a good share of this world's goods. He says he has no intention of leaving Enterprise. He still owns the two story brick building in which the store is located, and a beautiful home on West Main street.

Mr. Bruce is a man who made a big success in farming in Woods county, Okla. One of his sons, J. E. Bruce, came to this county a year or so ago and bought a place on Alder Slope. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bruce, and brothers Richard and Frank, came two weeks ago and have since been looking over the country, and they liked it so well this deal is the result. Mr. Bruce is a man whom to meet is a pleasure. He will conduct the business along the same lines of fair and square dealing, with prices as low as possible.

The deal was made through Payne & Sheets and the Enterprise State Bank—Enterprise, Oregon. News-Record.

It won't do for a married man to say to his wife, "Never mind." She is apt to take him at his word.

The papulist who struck a preacher claims to be an expounder of the gospel.

His name was William—but she called him Bill. The old man did not like him as a suitor to his daughter, and kicked him out. The next day they met he complained. The girl apologized and said that her pa was so accustomed to foot all her bills that he did it as a matter of course.

No More Accidents

Mr. Park, now vice-president of the Illinois Central, and former president of the Union Pacific, in a statement, as refreshing as it is unusual, that the Union Pacific and other Harriman lines have abolished accident-prone train accidents! He has adopted certain Union Pacific methods on the Illinois Central, and the statement comes out in connection with the announcement that the I. C. and its controlled lines during the past calendar year carried 30,728, 911 passengers, of whom not one was killed in a train accident, and this includes passengers carried on freight trains. The passenger mileage was about $60 million; passenger train mileage 15 million, and freight train miles 22 1/3 million. The number of train accidents of all kinds was equal to 7.43 accidents per million locomotive miles, which he says is nearly 50 per cent. less than the number occurring in the preceding year. Mr. Park says that the improvement over former records is due largely or mainly to surprise checking. The division officers now report very few misunderstandings or violations of rules, showing that the natural prejudices of the men against surprise checking have been largely overcome in the short space of time since Mr. Park introduced the methods which he had found so successful on the Union Pacific. His reference to the Union Pacific's efficiency tests, which have now been conducted for several years, is to the effect that they "have practically eliminated avoidable accidents." He includes the company's policy of giving publicity to the causes of train accidents as an important factor in improving the service. Presumptive evidence of the correctness of this declaration, as regards the Harriman lines, is found in the report of those lines, recently published, showing complete freedom from fatal train accidents to passengers during the past year. Both on these lines and on the Illinois Central the rules for surprise checking are systematic and rigid. One of them requires that when a passenger train is stopped by a flag or torpedo, or by an unusual signal, the conductor shall confer with the engineer before proceeding. For the last month (February, 1911), the surprise checking on the I. C. resulted in the following percentages of efficiency: Chicago division, 77; St. Louis division, 83; Springfield division, 78; Peoria division, 83; Freeport division, 90; Dubuque division, 67; and Cherokee-Omaha division 100. Mr. Park says that on the Harriman lines the efficiency of employees has been brought to that degree of perfection that on block-signalized lines a flagman is not required to go back if the signal can be seen at "stop" one-half mile in the rear. No other road in this country has such a rule, and very few others would be willing to put their efficiency to the test of an abolishment of flagging to the extent that the Harriman lines have done. As Mr. Park well says, this degree of perfection could have been attained only after both officers and employees had undergone a very systematic and exhaustive drill in efficiency.—Railway Age Gazette, March 24, 1911.

Providence, Ky., April 12.—It was learned today that John Sensing a detective, whose home is in Nashville, Tenn., had a narrow escape from a mob here at midnight Saturday, and the local officers tried to keep the matter quiet.

Town Marshall Wallace was called, and dispersed the mob. Sensing and the landlord of the hotel sat up the remainder of the night with guns in hand, expecting the mob to show up again but it failed.

A SONG OF AGE.

When I was young I hoped to be a man of value to the State. I prayed the fates to grant to me The laurels of the good and great— When I was young. When I was young I dreamed of hours In that then seeming distant time When I should wield God-given Rejoicing in my manhood's prime— When I was young. When I was young ambition stirred My pulses, filled my boyish heart; In all my actions ever spurred Me on to my allotted part— When I was young. But now when age creeps on apace And won are all those cherished bays, A victor in life's frenzied race, I'd give them all for those dear days When I was young! —Blakeney Gray.
